We are living through unprecedented times and I am sure that we are all following Government Advice, which changes daily! The support of the whole community by the community is paramount currently, especially for those who are most vulnerable.

A message on the CORONA VIRUS - from David Orme Chairman Dunkerton & Tunley Parish Council.

If you are self-isolating individually or as a household and need help during your confinement, or know anyone that does, please let me know and we will see what we can do. It's likely that most people have friends, family and neighbours who are aware of what's going on and will already have been in touch, but if you don't have such help to hand and feel cut off we'll try to get you through. A big shout out is due to the TRC here – the committee is doing a letter box drop in Tunley offering such help. That's great to know. We will look to what needs to be done in the same vein for Dunkerton and Withyditich residents. A Dunkerton – Coronavirus WhatsApp Group has been set up. It is open to all and is providing advice and mutual support and to raise awareness.

In the last day or so (as I type), the Government has put shielding precautions in place for those in particularly vulnerable groups, asking them to stay at home for a fairly long time. Do you know of those around you who are going to be affected by this restriction? Do you know if their family and friends have already been in touch with them about this? Can you make contact with them and be prepared to help if necessary?

Here in the parish, living in relatively small, relatively close-knit rural communities we tend to be more aware of these sorts of issues than many would be who live in impersonal urban areas. But we shouldn't let anyone fall through the net and suffer real problems by our assuming everything is OK. If you're in doubt about the vulnerability of any of our residents who are (or may be) 70+ and aren't confident about getting involved with them directly then email me their details in confidence and we can make the necessary discreet enquiries about their situation. No personal details will be passed on or retained for any reason other than to ensure the continuing support to and welfare of our vulnerable residents.....contact : daveorme56@gmail.com

All Saints' Church

The Parish Church of Dunkerton & Tunley

Regrettably, the instruction has been issued to keep all churches closed, so it will not be possible to go into the church for the time being.

This is a very difficult time for everyone - some are going to be trapped at home with little to do, others working harder than ever before. Whatever our individual circumstances, we can all look forward to the time when we can meet up again, in church or out of it; in the meantime, keep praying and keep safe!

There is now a Facebook page for the church <https://www.facebook.com/groups/AllSaintsDunkerton/> and updates will be posted both there and on <https://dunkertonwebsite.org.uk/>.

From The Rectory

“Praise be to the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ! In his great mercy he has given us new birth into a living hope through the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead and into an inheritance that can never perish...”
I Peter 1.3

Dear Friends,

As I write this, we are at the beginning of an existential crisis that is worldwide, caused by COVID-19 – the coronavirus. We are all affected by this situation, which is turning normal, everyday life upside down, the long-term effect of which cannot be predicted with any real accuracy. The only sure thing is that we are all in this together, and we need to work together and help one another through this unprecedented time. Well, I say unprecedented, but it has occurred to me that that might not be true.

For those of us of a certain age, we lived through a period when the whole world was threatened with imminent destruction. This came to a head in October 1962 when, for thirteen days, the world was on the brink of all-out nuclear war as the U.S.A. and The Soviet Union faced off in the Cuban Missile Crisis. An American friend, who was at high school in Pittsburgh at the time, told us that he and his classmates spent a whole day digging trenches on the school's playing field in which to shelter once the bombs started falling. Those of us living in the UK at that time probably weren't doing that, but many were very aware that we stood on the brink of something that was out of our control and which affected everything, including life itself.

It was in the context of all of this, that I received an article from someone in the U.S.A. It's based on an essay written by C.S. Lewis, an Oxford don (he was the one who wrote the Narnia stories, which include “The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe”). Lewis was a prolific author, and, during the 1940s, 50s and 60s, wrote many books in defence of the Christian faith. He wrote the essay in question during a period that was known as the “Cold War”: a time when the world was gripped with fear and uncertainty - a time like ours. I pray that what you read below helps you to put our current plight in a proper, godly perspective, and brings you hope.

Every blessing,
Tony

The following is the transcript of the article I received: C.S. Lewis once said that we should read three old books for every new one. I think we should read three C.S. Lewis books for every new one. He never faced the coronavirus, of course, but in the late 1940s, the world was coming to grips with another threat: nuclear annihilation. The bomb was only a few years old, and in the hands of sworn national enemies. The uncertainty of what exactly could happen, not to mention what might happen, was palpable. In that context, C.S. Lewis wrote an essay entitled "On Living in an Atomic Age". Whenever you hear "atomic bomb" in this essay, think "coronavirus."

"We think a great deal too much of the atomic bomb," Lewis begins. To those who wonder how it's possible to go on in the face of such a threat, Lewis recalls that theirs was not the first generation to live under a threatening shadow. In fact, if we're honest, we all live under a sentence of death, and for some of us, that death could even be "unpleasant."

The important question, says Lewis, is not whether or how we will die but if in the meantime we will be doing "sensible" and "human" things like "praying, working, reading, listening to music, bathing the children?"

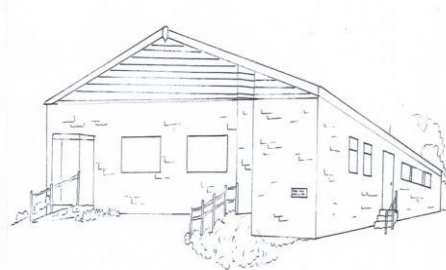

Lewis asks his readers to consider the important but unsettling truth that "Nature does not, in the long run, favour life." It's an ominous observation that points to an essential worldview truth: "If Nature is all that exists—in other words, if there is no God and no life of some quite different sort somewhere outside of Nature—then all stories 'will end in the same way: in a universe from which all life is banished without the hope of return.'"

So, how do we respond to this unsettling truth? It led Lewis to this conclusion: "We must simply accept that we are spirits, free and rational beings, at present inhabiting an irrational universe, and must draw the conclusion that we are not derived from it."

In other words, we must reject naturalism and embrace "a much earlier view:" biblical theism. It's the only grounds on which we can avoid the despair brought on by the knowing that we are under a "sentence of death," whatever form that death takes.

Lewis' words are just as relevant today as they were seventy years ago. For people who believe there is a God, doing the "sensible" and "human" things is possible because we have hope. For those who don't have that hope, no amount of toilet paper or cans of food stacked in the garage can make anyone truly safe, much less solve the ultimate question of meaning that haunts us all.

Today as yesterday, the world is still in God's hands. Nothing has changed. Whatever the next chapter of this coronavirus story might be, the same questions remain to us: Will we trust God? And then, will we love our neighbours? And finally, how then shall we live today in the light of eternity?

DUNKERTON FAIR 2020

IT IS WITH HUGE REGRET THAT THE
FAIR HAS BEEN CANCELLED THIS YEAR
FOR OBVIOUS REASONS

SATURDAY 20TH JUNE

LITTER CLEAR UP IN DUNKERTON

It has been suggested that anybody who would like to volunteer could do a litter pick around the village! This could be when you are walking out in the village and fields to take a bag and gloves and pick up litter. OR to meet, keeping 2metres (6 feet apart), on Friday April 3rd at 11.00, on the bridge.

Dunkerton WI

Since our last meeting in February, Dunkerton WI has been active in several fields.

Following the defeat in the County Federation skittles league, a social skittles evening was held at Peasedown Cricket Club which led to some fiercely contested bowling.

The craft group has been busy knitting jumpers for children in a village in Thailand, which is supported by a local resident who will be taking them with him next time he visits. It is good to know that this project is being done for a specific purpose.

Business matters were discussed including arrangements for future events and not content with just singing Jerusalem, a rendition of Happy Birthday was sung to the three people celebrating their birthdays this month.

Our speaker was Frances Keneally from Children's Hospice South West, in particular the work being done at Charlton Farm at Wraxall which was opened in 2007. The first children's hospice was opened in Devon in 1995 and a third in Cornwall in 2012. Frances gave an illustrated talk on the facilities offered and the people who are able to benefit and explained about the amount of charitable work that is undertaken to fund this valuable facility.

All meetings are sadly cancelled until further notice but members are communicating with each other encouragingly by email in the interim.

PLANNING

BANES Council's Planning Decisions

REF 19/04930/FUL The Old Stables Manor Farm The Hollow Dunkerton Extension and alterations to incorporate an existing redundant farm building, including a link between the two buildings APPROVED

REF 19/04913/FUL Hillcrest, Bath Road, Tunley, Erection of 2 sheds in garden. APPROVED

Parish Council's Responses to Planning Applications

REF 20/00331/FUL Highacres Bath Road Tunley Erection of single storey rear extension, first floor extension to existing single storey annexe following demolition of existing conservatory and boot room. General alterations to existing building (Resubmission). The parish council unanimously supported this revised application with its relatively minor amendments. This approval is subject to the single storey extension's roof top balustrade retaining a full height frosted glass finish to the west elevation of the glazed balustrade. This is in order to maintain the privacy of the adjacent property over its patio and rear garden.

REF 19/04865/FUL Lower Tunley Farm Stoneage Lane Tunley Erection of new farm building. The parish council unanimously voted to support this application in the light of comments made by a planning inspector in his appeal decision regarding a previous barn on the farm. The planning inspector indicated that the preferred location of a barn should be adjacent to the existing farm complex on the east side of Stoneage Lane and designed using more acceptable materials. Therefore the parish council now accept the proposed location of the new farm building. In addition with the changes made to the materials used and the relocation of the intended screening further away from the building to increase its effectiveness this revised application now complies with policies GB1, CP8, D2, D5 and D6 of the core strategy and placemaking plan.

REF 20/00468/VAR Swans Way Fosseyway Dunkerton Variation of condition 2 (plans list) of application 19/03937/FUL (Erection of first floor extension and reinstatement of front bay window stone mullions and hipped slate roof.) The parish council voted unanimously to support this relatively straightforward variation of condition 2 as it doesn't affect in any way the application's conformity to the core strategy and placemaking plan policies.

Statement from the Parish Council on Website Accessibility: Revised February 2020

Update to the Original Statement

Subsequent to the original statement (repeated below), the parish council has received information from the trade body for local council clerks about a deal that they have negotiated with a preferred supplier for an implementation package for local councils. The implementation of the changes required to meet the new accessibility regulations under this deal would be at least £840. This would use up more than 10% of the current precept and would put the parish council into deficit at year end. It would also require an additional 8% increase in the precept in the year 2020-2021 above that already agreed to cover this cost.

The original statement has been well publicised on the parish council website, in the Batch and on Facebook and to date the parish council has not received any objection to it. Therefore, in light of the expected cost and the response received from parishioners the parish council will take no further action in light of these regulations because they are considered a disproportionate burden on the parish council.

Original Statement

From September of next year new Government Data Service rules come into force seeking to ensure that people with disabilities can fully access online public services. All public bodies, regardless of size and services offered, will have to comply with the new "Website Accessibility Regulations" unless it can be demonstrated that implementing the new regulations represents a disproportionate burden on the public body in question.

Dunkerton & Tunley Parish Council has considered how it should respond to the introduction of the new rules. While the parish council understands and fully supports the intention behind them, we believe that complying with these new regulations would be a disproportionate burden on the parish council. The parish council is therefore not planning to amend the current parish website or Facebook page.

We plan to take no action for the following reasons:

- The parish council doesn't provide any online services.
- The parish website was developed with some external help using voluntary community-based expertise funded by grants. All updates to the site are done in-house. It uses a popular tool called Wordpress: we have not created some strange, awkward thing only used in this parish. We should not expect to find accessibility issues that have not previously been resolved over many years of widespread use of the Wordpress tool.
- Government advice is that smaller public bodies should complete a "Basic Accessibility Check". That sounds helpful. However, here is an example of such a "Basic" requirement, copied from the www.gov.uk website (and note this is just one part, within one stage, of a 7 stage "Basic" check):

"The way a [website] page looks is controlled by something called a 'stylesheet'. It defines things like the way a page is laid out and any font colours. Your content should still be usable even if stylesheets are disabled, or are not loading properly.....you'll need to check your sample pages are still usable when stylesheets are disabled. Test this by copying a URL from your website and pasting it into the WAVE tool. Once you've done that, select 'no styles' from the panel on the left-hand side of the tool. This should give you a much more basic view of the page."

The parish council's conclusion is that neither the Clerk nor any of the Councillors has the technical expertise to implement such guidance with any degree of confidence. Even less does any one of us have the spare time to complete all 7 stages of the "Basic" check for every page of the website.

- Therefore the parish council would have to employ an external supplier to undertake this work. As we don't have any budget for such work we would, next year, have to increase the precept (ie the local element of your Council Tax bill) above and beyond the normal yearly inflation increase to fund it. This is assuming that we could find a supplier willing to help; we have already been told that some local councils have been ditched by their website provider in light of these new regulations! As we raised the precept this year to fund additional work associated with the protection of rural bus services, we do not believe we should now ask for yet more funding to pay for consultancy work of unproven real value to parishioners.
- The parish council is happy to provide the information posted on the parish website in an alternative format at a reasonable cost to any parishioner who suffers difficulty accessing it through the website.

All that being said, if anyone, either on their part or on behalf of any parishioner who may suffer accessibility issues, believes we should be doing more they should in the first instance contact the clerk or the chairman (contact details below) to register their concern. Additionally, if we have a resident specialist in the parish prepared to carry out the "Basic Accessibility Check" for us on a voluntary basis then please contact us. We would be very pleased to hear from you. In this as in many other matters, the parish council is working with the Avon Local Councils Association (ALCA) to seek the advice and guidance of the National Association of Local Councils (NALC) about how Government regulations are best implemented. This ensures consistency of approach across the region and the country. In this particular instance, we are expecting further detailed advice, hopefully before the end of the year. If that advice when it arrives materially affects the potential burden on the parish council, either for better or worse, we will review and update this statement.

David Orme, Chairman Dunkerton & Tunley Parish Council

Kathryn Manchee, Clerk to the Council

We stand stronger when we support each other

A statement from Police and Crime Commissioner Sue Mountstevens:

"Understandably, local people are concerned about what the coming weeks and months will hold in terms of how we live our everyday lives.

"I want to reassure you that my office and Avon and Somerset Police are doing everything we can to work with partners in health agencies and local authorities to keep you safe and ensure you can access essential services you need during this unprecedented global health emergency.

"As we continue to receive daily updates, advice and instructions from central government regarding how to slow the spread of Covid19 and lessen the impact, I will continue to work closely with Chief Constable Andy Marsh to ensure Avon and Somerset Police has everything they need to provide critical policing services and support our communities.

"My priority as PCC will be to make sure that victims of crime are still at the forefront of everything the police do and it is crucial that the most vulnerable still have some level of access to vital services from the police and partners despite the unusual measures taken as a result of this pandemic.

"I am assured by the Chief Constable and his Chief Officer Group that Avon and Somerset Police is in a strong position to support the response to the virus and I urge you all to follow advice from the NHS, Public Health England and central government to do your bit to lessen the impact of this pandemic.

"During times of increased demand and possible reduced numbers of officers and staff due to illness remember there are alternative ways to report crime or incidents. If you want to, you can report a crime online as well as calling 101 for non-emergency matters. Please, only ring 999 in an emergency.

"I cannot stress enough how important our dedicated 'frontline' officers, staff and volunteers are. This includes our handy people, mechanics, IT staff and other support functions who help our officers do their jobs but who often go unrecognised.

"We are all committed to being open with our communities, working in partnership and having courage during these unsettling times and I know officers, staff, teams and volunteers will continue to go above and beyond for our communities.

"Finally, remember to have compassion and look out for one another, especially those who are more vulnerable. We stand stronger when we support each other. We face this challenge together. Stay safe.

"Remember, I am your voice in policing so if you have concerns about policing matters in your area and you would like to get in contact with me, visit: <https://www.avonandsomerset-pcc.gov.uk/Contact/Contact-Us.aspx>"
